

Robbie's a Mex maniac

ROBBIE WILLIAMS wowed 'em down Mexico way as The Man appeared at the famed Gala of Oye Awards festival. His Latin fans went wild in Mexico City as he gave them EI! With a bolero jacket and low slung jeans Robbie, 31, certainly knows how to spice up the night as he ran through his rip-it-up repertoire.

FOR crying out loud, don't blame us Muslims for the crazy blight of political correctness.

Much of this idiocy from local councils and schools seems to be enforced by people who would otherwise have no work to do at all.

Mrs S. MUHAMMAD, Leeds.

AFTER reading about all the money and other perks our MPs rake in thanks to their jobs on the side (Daily Star, November 17), they've got a colossal cheek to suggest that people on incapacity benefit are living the life of luxury. They're the ones with their snouts in the trough.

ELL'S bells! Sexy Jennifer Ellison's on course to become Britain's No.1 calendar cracker. The former Brookie babe's flirty dozen poses for 2006 are flying off the shelves.

She's now in a five-way catfight with Kylie Minogue, 37, the Hollyoaks babes, Kelly Brook, 26, and Girls Aloud to be our No.1 pin-up.

The 22-year-old was hoping to fire herself ahead with a signing session at the flagship HMV store in London's Oxford Street today.

An industry insider said: "Jennifer's 32DD charms and sexy poses are a massive hit."

The official Jennifer Ellison 2006 calendar is on sale at HMV, Clintons, and all good stationery stores for approx. £7.99. Or order online at www.danilo.com

Bullying by phone

SCHOOL bullies are using mobile phones to torment their victims.

Eight out of 10 teachers have been approached by a child over the problem, says a study by the children's charity NCH.

A spokesman said: "It can be easier to intimidate someone by phone than in person."

Blitz by burglars

A SCHOOL plagued by burglaries is forking out £900 a week on guards, but is still being robbed.

Minders were hired to patrol Haverhey Hey primary in Wythenshawe, Manchester, after thieves broke in 30 times.

But despite guards patrolling every night and 24 hours at weekends, the building has been raided three more times.

Girl faces stab rap

A 14-YEAR-OLD girl was remanded on bail for eight weeks yesterday when she appeared before a court charged with stabbing a fellow pupil in the eye with a pair of scissors.

The defendant, who can't be named, was charged at Guildford Crown Court with inflicting grievous bodily harm with intent.

I THOUGHT THE GIRLS WERE 20!

Glitter's claim on sex rap

GARY GLITTER has denied child sex allegations – claiming he believed a girl of 12 was in her twenties. Singer Glitter, 61, is being quizzed over abuse claims from up to five girls in Vietnam.

But the former glam rocker

■ by NADINE LINGE

insists he was teaching them to speak English and they all told him they were over 20.

If charged and found guilty Glitter faces execution by firing squad or life behind bars.

The country's Thanh

Nien newspaper reported Glitter, real name Paul Gadd, as saying: "When they met me they all told me they were older than 20."

The fallen idol also moaned to police about the trouble his stage name attracts.

He said: "I hate the name Gary Glitter because it brings all this attention to me."

He was arrested on Saturday at Ho Chi Minh City airport in Vietnam as he tried to jet to Thai capital Bangkok.

The 12-year-old told police Glitter had paid her just £5.50 for sex, classified as rape under Vietnamese law regardless of the child's "consent".

Officers have also spoken to SEX And The City beauty Kim Cattrall went ape for a stunt on telly in the US. She appeared with a monkey head in New York for a sketch on 47-year-old Ellen DeGeneres' show. Kim, 49, was driven around the Big Apple in a carriage with the remote-controlled head on her lap.

15-year-old girl who was said to have been living at his house as his "wife" and have identified up to three other girls who said they had sex with Glitter.

Police yesterday confirmed Glitter will be held for three more days of questioning.

He has demanded a British lawyer after snubbing a list of Vietnamese briefs supplied by the British Consulate.

The maximum sentence for sex with children there is execution by a firing squad.

FASHIONABLE culottes have helped Marks & Spencer trouser whacking sales figures this year.

The newly-trendy garments have been flying off shelves after enjoying a fashion boom that's set to continue into the New Year.

And M&S' range of knee-length trousers – also called city shorts – has boosted profits to a better-than-expected £308m in the past half year.

They're worn by British model Erin O'Connor, 26, in the firm's telly advertising.

OUR ONE-FOR-THE-ROAD TEST FOR THREE GIRLS ON THE TOWN

TOMORROW a nation of boozers will be saying "cheers" to 24-hour drinking. New licensing laws will bring an end to the traditional 11pm closing time in thousands of pubs and clubs.

But while the move has been welcomed by party-goers, others believe all-night opening will increase violence and drink driving.

So how much booze does it take to be over the limit? And how safe are you behind the wheel the morning after? KATE JACKSON checked out three girls on a night on the tiles, testing their blood/alcohol levels during the evening and the following morning. The results are sobering...

How we tested them

WE used a disposable breathalyser called AlcoLimit, which can tell you within two minutes if you're over the limit.

The girls, Sophie, Emma and Miriam, drank large glasses of wine (two units) as well as smaller glasses of champagne (one unit) and cocktails (one unit).

They were given different instructions. Sophie was allowed to drink as much as she liked, Emma was told to eat during her session and Miriam had to have a glass of water between every drink.

Each were tested during the night and at 9.30am the following day.

To use AlcoLimit squeeze the middle of the plastic tube to break the yellow crystals inside. Take a deep breath and blow into the tube, in one continuous breath, for 12 seconds. Shake the tester to distribute the crystals and hold in a horizontal position. If the majority of the crystals turn blue/green, your blood alcohol level is above 80mg/100ml and you are not safe to drive.

CHEERS TO US:
Sophie, Emma and Miriam had a great time on their night out, but how much did they drink and how were they in the morning?

Booze WHO?

Sophie's Diary

SOPHIE BROWN, 30, author and marketing executive from Cambridge

6.30pm: 1 250ml glass white wine – 2 units
6.45pm: white wine – 2 units
7pm: small glass white wine – 1 unit
7.15pm: champagne – 1 unit
7.30pm: 1 FBI cocktail – 1 unit
8.22pm: champagne – 1 unit
9pm: champagne – 1 unit
9.30pm: champagne – 1 unit
9.50pm: champagne – 1 unit
10pm: sambucca shot – 1 unit
10.50pm: champagne – 1 unit
11.10pm: white wine – 2 units

TOTAL: 15 units in 5 hours

SOPHIE SAYS: "I can't believe how quickly the units add up. I'm not surprised I was way over the limit that night, but I did an AlcoLimit breath test at 9am and I was still over the limit so I had to get the train to work. I was still over the limit well into mid-morning, which is frightening. I had never thought about how long it takes alcohol to work its way out of your system. It's quite shocking and makes you wonder how many people actually drink midweek then drive to work over the limit the morning after."

Emma's Diary

EMMA VITTY, 27, a PR manager from Staffordshire.

6pm: 1 250ml glass white wine – 2 units
6.45pm: white wine – 2 units
7pm: Coca Cola
Bar food consumed – chips and tapas
7.15pm: champagne – 1 unit
8pm: white wine – 2 units
9pm: champagne – 1 unit
11pm: white wine – 2 units

TOTAL: 10 units in 5.5 hours

EMMA SAYS: "I'm glad I had some food in between or I would have felt really unwell the next day. I did an AlcoLimit after my second glass of wine and was already over the limit, which is why I had some food. I was surprised how quickly I became over the limit – it's those massive wine glasses. Unsurprisingly, I was over the limit at 8am the following day, but OK a couple of hours later."

Miriam's Diary

MIRIAM KARSTEN, 24, a personal assistant from London.

6pm: 1 250ml glass white wine – 2 units
6.30pm: glass water
6.35pm: white wine – 2 units
7.30pm: 1 cocktail – 1 unit

MIRIAM SAYS: "I generally need to take quite a bit of water or I can't hold my drink! I was over the limit before I had a cocktail which I thought might be the case as each glass is about half a bottle! I paced myself and tested OK after a big breakfast. I'll make sure I don't drive the morning after a big night – the change in drink measures are lethal."

GET DRIVEN TO DRINK...

CHRISTMAS is one of the worst times of year for drinking and driving.

About 3,000 people are killed or seriously injured on the roads every year because of drunk drivers.

The law states you are unsafe to be driving if your blood/alcohol level is above 80mg/100ml.

But according to the Portman Group, which promotes responsible drinking, there is no use guessing when you'll be over the limit.

A spokeswoman says: "Don't drink at all if you're going to drive. There are so many factors to take into consideration – if you're on medication, if you've had something to eat, if you're a man or a woman, what you weigh."

"If you're going to drive, stick to soft drinks or nominate a driver to take you home. Always ensure you've got enough money to get a taxi back."

AlcoLimit is available in single packs, at £3.99 each, packs of three, at £9.99, and packs of five, at £15.99, from www.alcolimit.co.uk or call 08707 20 20 21 for stockists.

HOW YOU CAN GET THE POUT IN TIME

KITCHEN SHRINK • Chocolate

BAD
CHOCOLATE may be a dieter's worst enemy but if you choose the right bar you can cut the calories and improve your health.

Here we put some high-street brands under the spotlight to find out which ones are just as good for you as they taste.

CADBURY'S DAIRY MILK

Size: 100g
Calories: 532
Fat: 28g
Protein: 7.8g
Carbs: 60g (20%)

It's been around for 100 years and is the nation's favourite chocolate but while it tastes like nectar Dairy Milk is also 43% fat. So keep it in the fridge and restrict yourself to the occasional nibble if you want to count the calories.

GREEN & BLACK'S 70% DARK BAR

Size: 100g
Calories: 576
Fat: 40.5g
Protein: 7.5g
Carbs: 45.5g

Its nutritional figures are similar to Dairy Milk, but Green & Black's is made from 99.5% organic ingredients and is 70% cocoa solids – which means more antioxidants to help combat ageing, hormonal problems and heart disease. It's also fair trade, so more of the profits go to the farmers.

SLIMFAST CHOCOLATE BAR

Size: 100g
Calories: 274
Fat: 9.0g
Protein: 20.6g
Carbs: 35.3g

Less than a third of the fat and around half of the calories of its rivals – it's also got vastly more protein. But does it taste as good?

Merry

THE Christmas party season is about to burst into full swing – and there'll be plenty of mistletoe about!

Which means there's never been a better time to be the proud possessor of a perfect pout.

As the pillow lips of many a celebrity prove, it seems big is beautiful when it comes to the mouth department.

In fact, on planet showbiz a gorgeous gob is seemingly a must-have these days. The likes of Angelina Jolie, 30, and Billie Piper, 23, are among a host of bee-stung beauties who have firmly relegated rosebud lips to yesterdays.

And it's certainly not just a look for the ladies, with a generous north and south doing wonders for the boys as well...

Cricket ace Andrew "Freddie" Flintoff, 27, and Jamie Oliver, 30, were recently chosen as the ideal knights in shining armour but the fact they have juicy kisses won't have harmed their appeal with the ladies!

Of course both these fellas are clearly naturally blessed. But relatively simple cosmetic procedures mean you don't have to rely on old Mother Nature for that to-die-for mouth.

More than a few famous fillies are rumoured to have had a little help with their pleasingly plump pouts and lip enhancements are now one of the most common cosmetic procedures on both sides of the pond.

There can be a downside, though. The craze for full mouths has also provided the not-so-pleasant phenomenon of the trout pout. These over-pumped-up offerings are usually sported by ladies of a certain age who've ignored the golden rule that you can have too much of a good thing.

Realistic

Instead, you must be realistic about what you can achieve – there's no use going in and demanding to look like Kylie if you bear no resemblance to her in the first place. Ensure you choose your practitioner wisely and a fuller and more defined mouth could be yours.

Frances Furlong, 30, nurse practitioner at London's City Skinklinik, advises: "How different people perceive lips is very individual. What is big to one might not be to another. Before undergoing any treatment a full consultation should take place."

"This is the time when the patient and practitioner can discuss what results they are hoping to achieve and also what will best suit the patient.

The aim should be for a natural look. Enhanced, yes, but not freakishly out of proportion. We want to make the patient look better, not worse, so keeping the face in correct proportion – taking into consideration all features including cheekbones, eyes and shape – is vitally important.

Worried

If a patient feels unclear or worried about anything, or that the consultation has been rushed, I would advise they don't go ahead with the treatment. This is your face and you have to live with the results.

"Unfortunately this is an industry that at present is not as strictly monitored as most professionals would like."

Restylane and Perlane, which are also commonly used as "fillers" to help smooth away nose-to-mouth and frown lines, are currently the most commonly used products for lip enhancement, though procedures are constantly evolving.

Both are man-made, so there is no need for a patch test, as with collagen, which comes from cows. They tend to last for six to eight months as the product is gradually absorbed.

It is usually injected with an ultra-fine needle into the Vermillion border (lip outline) for improved definition, the body or fleshy part of the lip for increased volume, or a combination of both.

As well as improving the general appearance of the

CELEBRITY SURGERY SPY

Nicola Roberts

GIRLS Aloud star Nicola Roberts, 20, has undergone something of a transformation since the band were formed on ITV show Popstars: The Rivals nearly three years ago.

So much so that rumours now abound that the sexy lass has had a boob job.

So what do our experts reckon...?

EXPERTS' VERDICT

JEANY SAVAGE Daily Star photographer

I think she's definitely had her boobs boosted. It's a small, neat job that fits with her frame but her breasts look too upright and rounded for natural boobs.

She was really quite flat before and now there's a definite curvature – more than would be possible than with, say, a gel-filled bra.

The rest of her transformation is down to getting rid of the ginger in favour of a darker auburn shade, plus lots of hair extensions, fake tan and false eyelashes.

MARY BURNETT director of clinical services at Transform Medical Group, the UK's largest cosmetic surgery group (call 0500 202020 for inquiries)

Nicola's cleavage certainly appears larger in the last photograph but I don't think she has had a breast enlargement – it looks more like clever use of a push-up padded bra and tit-tape.

She is a very slim girl so naturally her breasts probably aren't as large as the photograph implies. If she has had a breast enlargement it looks very natural.

She is still very young so should consider any surgery carefully as she would have to have the implants replaced in about 10 years.

She also seems to have developed a very close relationship with her fake tan. No natural redhead would ever go that shade in the sun!

ANTI-SMOKING VACCINE: It's hoped a jab that will double smokers' chances of quitting the dreaded weed will be available within five years. Results from the first long-term trial show two out of five smokers had continued to abstain after a year.

HOMEOPATHIC REMEDIES: Alternative cures have been found to work on 70% of patients. Researchers say the majority of sufferers given homeopathic medications for conditions such as asthma and eczema felt better.

TRIPLE OXYGEN FACIAL: A fave of Madonna and at 47 there's no question the Queen of Pop is looking just marvellous. It uses a vitaminised oxygen spray that leaves your face as plump as a baby's. £185 for 85 minutes; www.blisslondon.co.uk

FALSE EYELASHES: They're a mainstay on planet showbiz for that wide-eyed super glam look, so why not give your peepers a little extra festive sparkle.

WHAT'S IN & WHAT'S OUT

ANDREW TOILET TISSUE: That gorgeous Andrew puppy is in the doghouse after a rival loo paper was ruled softer. Andrew claims theirs is softest but lab tests picked out Asda's own shades.

MAN-MADE FATS: M&S will be the first major retailer to ban them from foods. It follows growing concerns about the substances – hydrogenated vegetable fats, linked with heart disease, narrowing of blood vessels and diabetes.

BIG BOOBS: Young women with a large bra size are more likely to develop breast cancer at an early age, according to new research from Harvard University in the US.

FLU JABS: The Government has told GPs that Britain is running out of flu vaccine because of panic over the virus. The problem stems from more people than ever demanding inoculations – even though the regular jabs give no protection from a pandemic strain of the bird flu disease.

POUT LIP PLUMP, £16, www.pout.co.uk
This peppermint-infused, cooling gloss contains Maxi-Lip™ – a unique ingredient that hydrates the lips, increases collagen and, with repeated use, has been shown to improve lip fullness by up to 40%. Apply Pout Lip Plump at least two to three times daily directly to lips or over a favourite lip colour. Available in original clear, bubblegum and caramel.

SKIN DOCTORS PERFECT POUT, £19.95, www.skindoctors.co.uk or call 0870 460 5088
This offers fuller lips in 60 seconds or less thanks to new advances in cosmetology that promise to give you a plump look instantly and without a needle in sight. Perfect Pout also includes powerful moisturising and glossing agents and makes your lips flush a natural rosy colour without lipstick.

MOLTON BROWN'S WONDER LIPS BOOSTER, £24, www.molton-brown.co.uk

This night therapy provides 24-hour care for lips but the shimmer finish also makes it suitable for day wear. The secret ingredient is Maxi-Lip™, a natural complex that stimulates lips to produce their own collagen. With wild mango butter and vitamin E, the enriching formula is said to plump up the volume, fill out fine lines and smooth and improve definition.

uth, this procedure can help patients to look anger as lips, particularly the top one, diminish as part of the ageing process. Prices vary depending on how much product is applied and who carries out the procedure, but range £270 to £300 for a syringe of Restylane. Price shouldn't be a major factor in choosing a practitioner, though, as personal recommendation usually the best. Light swelling is common, usually lasting from 48 hours depending on individual reaction, and there is sometimes bruising, though this should be minimal.

Frances adds: "It's up to the patient but personally I prefer to use a local anaesthetic to numb the patient before I start administering the product."

Swelling

"The lips, particularly the top one, are very sensitive and injections in this area can be unpleasant.

"There's some debate on this as the anaesthetic can cause a little swelling in itself but this will quickly go down afterwards and I think the patient's comfort should be a major priority. I've also found that using anaesthetic seems to minimise the amount of post-treatment bruising.

"As a practitioner our goal is to keep any discomfort or tell-tale signs down to the minimum.

"At City Skinklinic we offer treatment by either a nurse or doctor as it's very much an individual choice."

Just match the pout to the personality...

1. Probably the most famous pillow lips in showbiz, these days the Hollywood hottie is locking those beautiful lips with Brad Pitt.

5. This towering Ashes hero is a world-class all-rounder and the lovely Lancastrian is certainly high up the batting order when it comes to his effortless pout.

2. He's known for his lip-smacking recipes so just as well this cute chef's got lips as juicy as a ripened tomato.

6. Who wouldn't mind a little time travelling with this luscious-lipped pop star turned actress?

3. This spicy lady might be known for her love of the fickle world of fashion, yet her pouty expression rarely changes.

7. Before switching to acting he made his mark as a classic square-jawed, pouting male model and those lips recently said 'I do' to Demi Moore.

4. In Pride and Prejudice the director apparently ordered her to keep the pouting down but the bee-stung beauty really can't seem to help herself.

8. This Brit babe will always be remembered for her ample assets in 'that dress' but her lips are more than adequate too.

DANCIN' CHEF JAMES MARTIN'S SNACK DIET

BOXING Clever

IT'S four weeks to Christmas and chances are that your bank balance is getting smaller while your waistline's getting bigger. The festive season plays havoc with your finances, not to mention your weight.

According to new research, our café latte lifestyle costs us a whopping £4,000 a year. All those coffees, pre-packed sandwiches and afternoon treats can add up to more than £15 a day for the average worker.

Keith Tondeur of www.moneybasics.co.uk, which commissioned the survey, says: "Grabbing a sandwich and a coffee is part of our busy work culture but this lifestyle eats up hard-earned cash that could be better spent. Even the daily cup of coffee can add up to a significant amount over a month. A few simple changes can help us to eat better and save money."

With that in mind, KATE JACKSON asked celebrity chef and Strictly Come Dancing star James Martin, 33, to devise some interesting, cheap and healthy ideas for your lunchbox.

James has lost two stone on Strictly Come Dancing and it's all down to healthy eating and exercise. His lunch recipes, which include three of your five portions of fruit and veg for the day, will help you shift the pounds and save the pennies in time for a merry Christmas.

Orange and carrot salad

2 fresh carrots
1 large bunch watercress
2 medium oranges, peeled and cut into segments
50g pitted black olives
50g feta cheese
Dressing:
2 tbs honey
2 tbs olive oil
1 tbs white wine vinegar
1 tbs grain mustard
pinch ground pepper

1. Wash and peel the carrots into strips and place in a bowl.
2. Arrange the watercress and orange segments on a plate with carrot strips.
3. Scatter olives and crumble feta on top.
4. Mix together dressing ingredients and drizzle over salad.

Grilled leek pie

1 small leek, cut into 1cm slices
2 tbs olive oil
1 handful fresh watercress
1 sheet ready-rolled puff pastry
1 piece mozzarella cheese
1 small courgette, sliced and grilled
1 tbs pesto
1 red pepper, cut into quarters and grilled
1 egg beaten

1. Cook the leeks in olive oil for about 5 mins. Add the watercress, and seasoning and allow to cool.
2. Heat oven to 200C/392F/gas mark

TIPS

FOR a healthier, cheaper lunch...

- Swap cans of coke for water.
- Make your own sandwiches. Pre-packed sarnies cost about £2.50, while home-made ones average 60p. They also contain less fat.
- Add a Vie Shot to your lunchbox, at just £1.89 for three, these fruit and veg drinks can supply one of your daily fruit portions.
- Cook your dinner from scratch and you could save £2.50 a day. Most ready meals cost around £4 each, while whipping up your own feast can cost around £1.50.
- Keep a jar of instant coffee at work. It'll cost around the same as just one latte.

6. Roll the pastry out into two rectangles about 20cm x 15cm – one a little thinner than the other for the top. Lay the thicker piece on a lightly floured baking sheet. Top with leeks, watercress, and mozzarella.
3. Coat with pesto and add grilled courgettes and red pepper.
4. Brush a little of the beaten egg around the edges, lay the other piece of pastry on top and squeeze edges together. Make two slashes across the top of the pie to allow steam to escape. Brush with beaten egg.
5. Bake for 25 mins or until pastry is golden and bottom is crispy.

Spicy Aubergine

(With chicken, chickpea salad)

1 small aubergine, cubed
1/4 garlic clove
1/2 tsp grated ginger
2 spring onions, cut into 2cm batons
100g tinned chickpeas, drained and rinsed
100ml vegetable stock
1 tbs light soy sauce
20g ready-to-eat prunes, halved
1/2 tsp cornflour (mix with water to make a paste)
125g cooked chicken breast
1/4 red chilli, de-seeded and finely sliced
4 pieces sundried tomato
sprig of fresh basil
1. Toss the aubergine cubes in vegetable oil in a baking tray and grill for 10–15 minutes, until lightly charred. Turn occasionally.
2. Heat some sesame oil in a wok, add ginger and spring onions, cook for five mins. Add the aubergine, chickpeas, stock and soy sauce and bring to boil.
3. Add the prunes and cook for five mins. Add cornflour paste to thicken. Pour mixture into your lunchbox and place the chicken on top. Sprinkle with chilli, sundried tomatoes and basil.

BETTER THAN EVER AS SHE RETURNS TO WORK

Kate in business

By KATE JACKSON

IT'S business as usual for troubled supermodel Kate Moss.

The shamed star looked happy as she showed off her fantastic figure at a photoshoot for luxury jewellery on a beach in the West Indies.

And Kate took full advantage of the spectacular views on the island of Saint Barthélémy – by taking snaps for her own photo album.

The 31-year-old beauty, who was exposed as a cocaine addict in September, is back on fine form after spending a month in rehab.

Before her stay at The Meadows in Arizona, Kate was pictured looking gaunt and spotty.

She reportedly put on 7lbs during rehab, but the extra weight has only improved her curves.

The supermodel smiles as she puffs on a cigarette. And the only Coke on show is in a glass!

The Croydon lass was dropped by a string of top brands after pictures of her snorting cocaine were published. But now it looks like she has got her career back on track.

She appears topless in next year's Pirelli calendar and has recently shot a range of photos for Italian designer Roberto Cavalli, 65.

Range

Burberry's creative director Christopher Bailey, 34, rubbishingly reports they had ever dropped Kate from their campaigns.

And sources revealed yesterday that Kate is set to be the new face of Virgin Mobile.

The megabucks deal will be her first new contract since the pictures of her taking cocaine at the recording studios of her then boyfriend, Babyshambles frontman Pete Doherty, 26.

Last night, Virgin refused to talk about the negotiations, said to be "at an advanced stage".

But a source close to the model said: "It's good that people are starting to value her again."

Looking as good as this, we reckon Kate's going to be valued for quite some time.

And to show she really is recovering from the scandal, she is planning a "mothers and girls" detox holiday in Thailand this Christmas.

While her ex Doherty was said to be pledging to go into rehab to win her back, Kate will toast the New Year in a cup of herbal tea at a £500-a-day detox spa.

Kate, her three-year-old tot Lila, best friend Sadie Frost, 38, and her daughter Iris, five, will be at the exotic destination from Boxing Day until January 6.

A source revealed: "Kate's big worry is how to keep herself clean over Christmas and New Year. So while everyone is partying she's focusing on her health and being a devoted mother."

WHAT'S HOT TO WATCH TODAYTHE DINGLES

arrive in Spain in tonight's EMMERDALE (ITV1, 7pm). Which, of course, isn't what Pollard is expecting. "Slight change of plan Eric," explains Carl, the only member of the King clan who's ended up joining the trip. For Pollard's dodgy business plan to remain on course, then, he has to pretend to his Spanish associates that Zak and co. are really Tom's lot. "They may look, and smell, like peasants," he concedes, "but they're a collection of fine business brains."

OVER on BBC1, meanwhile, David Attenborough kicks off his latest nature series. This one is called LIFE IN THE UNDERGROWTH (BBC1, 9pm) and deals with invertebrates, ie. creatures without a spine (feel free to insert your own potentially libellous gag here). Some of these are insects so tiny they can only be seen in detail with the latest high-tech cameras, so it's a good job Atters flicked through his Innovations catalogue and treated himself to one.

CORONATION STREET episode (ITV1, 10pm) sees Sarah running out of patience with Jason. Frustrated that he still hasn't dumped Violet, she storms across and hammers on his door.

"Tell her!" she demands. "Tell her what's going on."

But there's no need, because Violet then joins him in the doorway – and quickly figures out the terrible truth. "You stupid cow!" Jason yells at Sarah. "Look what you've gone and done now!"

He then rushes indoors to try to salvage his relationship, insisting that him and Sarah was just a one-off. But he's wasting his breath. "Don't lie to me," Violet cries. "I saw that performance. That is not the behaviour of some silly cow who's had a quick grope down a back alley. She's had seconds – and the rest."

SOLUTIONS IN TOMORROW'S DAILY STAR

Just Jane

JANE O'GORMAN SOLVES
YOUR PROBLEMS TODAY
... AND EVERY DAY

Mum
hates
my girl

MY dad died when I was 12 and my mum brought up me and my sister on her own.

Now I'm 19 and have been going out with my first really serious girlfriend for a few months but my mum and sister hate her.

They have been fine with girlfriends I have had before so I just can't understand it.

My girlfriend is very sweet and lovely and wouldn't do anything bad to anyone. But my mum and sister are trying to put me off her.

Stop

My sister says she's seen her with other blokes and my mum reckons she has been bad-mouthing me.

When my girlfriend comes to our house they ignore her and it's difficult because her parents are very welcoming to me.

It's not going to put me off her - I know none of it is true - but how can I stop them acting like this?

JANE SAYS: Your mum and sister are desperately worried that they are going to lose you.

You sound like a responsible son and brother who wouldn't drop his family just because he's in love, but their fear of it is making them vindictive.

You need to reassure them that just because you have a steady girlfriend it doesn't mean you care for them less, but if they carry on like this you will have to rethink where you live.

Suggest that if they don't mend their ways you might move in with your girlfriend and her nice parents.

EX IS STUCK WITH HER FEMALE LOVER

TRAPPED: She wants me but her lesbian lover won't let her go

I HAD been living with my girlfriend for three years until she got too close to a woman she worked with.

We'd been talking about getting engaged and having a family and then one day she broke the news that she was leaving me for her colleague.

She said that they were in love and she wanted to be in a relationship with someone she felt knew her and understood her.

I was astonished because I'd always felt that we were very close and I didn't think she'd made the plans we had for our future together if we weren't.

I didn't beg her to stay because I reckoned that once she'd been with this woman for a few months she'd realise she'd made a mistake and come home.

When she left she didn't take any of her things apart from clothes, and then the other day she texted me and said she needed her CDs.

When she turned up I was shocked by the way she looked.

It's only been three months, but she's lost loads of weight and looked terrible. We had a coffee and it all came pouring out.

It seems this woman is dreadful, bossy and controlling and she's longing to come home and be with me again.

The snag is that the woman is now her boss and my girlfriend fears that she'll lose her job if she moves out.

I told her that it didn't matter and I'd support her, but she seems too scared to make the move.

How can I rescue her?

Witch has cast spell on her

JANE SAYS: Your girlfriend is in a very difficult situation, but the decision to leave her controlling lover has to be hers.

You've told her that you'll support her so let that sink in and hopefully she'll see sense and leave this bully.

I'm sure you want to ride up on your white horse and rescue her from the dragon, but if you do that you risk alienating her because you'll put her in a position of making a choice in front of her lover.

And as that lover has her in her power she will feel forced to choose her rather than you.

All you can really do is let her know you are there for her.

Perhaps texting her and letting her know you will be as supportive as you can will give her the courage to leave.

Even speaking to any friends she's got may be worth it as they could perhaps pass any messages on.

But don't pester her as you then run the risk of pushing her towards the dragon.

Fella's turned nasty

MY boyfriend has told me that if I don't have sex with him when and how he demands it he will be rude and nasty to me, my family and my friends.

I couldn't believe he'd do this so I tested him and he was vile to my friend and her fella.

It was the most embarrassing night I've ever had because we were out having a meal and he told my friend he thought she was a cheap slapper and her bloke was thick.

He made a huge scene with a waitress when he put his hand up her skirt.

I was in tears, but when we got home he said I should imagine how that would go down with my parents and I'd better think twice about denying him what he wants again.

I do love him but I don't know what to do.

JANE SAYS: Your boyfriend is a nasty piece of work and I suggest you leave him right now.

You don't need this type of behaviour. You might love him, but does he love you?

I think not or he wouldn't treat you with such little respect.

He is a control freak and will only get worse the deeper you get into this relationship.

You need to tell him his sexual blackmail won't work and he has two choices - start behaving like someone you want to be with, or you will leave him.

It might sound difficult, but you can't live like this for the rest of your life.

I WANT MR RIGHT NOW

I'VE been through about 10 boyfriends and none of them is right for me.

It's all so frustrating.

I meet someone I think is wonderful and after a couple of months he turns into a nightmare.

It's happened time after time and I wonder if I'll ever meet Mr Right.

I've been told I have a great personality and I'm not bad looking with a sexy body, but I just don't know why I keep finding frogs instead of a prince.

JANE SAYS: You sound desperate to me, and I reckon that's the vibe you boyfriends are getting. It could be that you are trying to make the guys you go out with into Mr Perfect, to change them to be your ideal guy. That doesn't ever work.

Maybe you're trying to move the relationships along too fast.

Whatever the reason for not yet finding your soul mate you need to calm down and view each guy as a friend before you take it a step further.

Relax and don't panic or you'll end up scaring away any potential boyfriends before you know whether they are right for you.
